New e-CODEX pilot is live!

Simplified recovery of outstanding debts between Poland and Germany

Starting from today, the recovery of outstanding debts in cross-border cases between Poland and Germany is getting much easier. Polish citizens and businesses can submit a claim to the German Court effortlessly by electronic means. The e-CODEX project provides a safe and reliable solution for handling a European Order for Payment procedure electronically.

Example: "Jakub's Polish IT company has developed specific software for an organisation in Germany. The customer has not paid the bill and ignores all reminders. Jakub can now easily and quickly start a European Order for Payment Procedure against the customer from the comfort of his own computer."

Thanks to e-CODEX, it is possible to submit all required documents to the German District court Wedding (Berlin). The whole communication, starting from submitting a claim and ending with the court's decision, is performed electronically. Handling cross-border cases has never been easier!

As of now, the service is available on the Polish platform: www.pilot.e-codex.pl. It was developed within the e-CODEX project by the Institute of Logistics and Warehousing, which is part of the project in cooperation with the Ministry of Justice in Poland. EPO applications are already up and running in Austria, Estonia, Germany, Greece, Italy and Poland.

EPO is one of the piloting cases where project solutions are implemented to enable the seamless electronic communication between national systems. The overall goal of the project is to improve the cross-border access of citizens and businesses to legal means in Europe.
